March for Life, Wed. Jan. 22, 2014

Hazardous driving conditions in Nassau and Suffolk forced cancelation of all buses scheduled to leave on Wed. 1/22 to attend the March for Life. Several student groups left a day or so earlier and participated in the

Students from Stony Brook University's Catholic Campus Ministry at the 2014 March for Life in Washington, D.C.

March and student activities. EWTN aired the Pro-Life Mass on the eve of the March and the entire March on 1/22 and in reruns later. Many national TV stations mentioned the March.

Braving the cold, speakers including religious leaders of many faiths (Pope Francis tweeted his support), Senate and House Members, and pro-life leaders spoke words of encouragement. Marchers from France, Italy, Belgium the Netherlands, Canada and Lithuania stated this march influences people around the world. Mini Marches and Rallies in opposition to Roe v. Wade were held in San Francisco (50,000-60,000), Nebraska, Wisconsin, Georgia, Washington state and Idaho.

“STOP” ABORTION EXPANSION in N.Y.S. – the 2014 challenge.

LICL opposes any part of the Women's Equality Act that would expand abortion under NYS law. Oppose abortion expansion whether it comes in a 10-point plan (the “Women's Equality Act” A.8070) or a stand-alone bill (S.438 or S.5881). (See page 3.) In 2013 pro-life organizations stood strong and defeated Gov. Cuomo's effort to make abortion legal through all nine months of pregnancy. We can do this in 2014! On 1/27/14 the N.Y.S. Assembly passed the “Women's Equality Act” which includes abortion expansion. Next, the battle moves to the N.Y.S. Senate. We must immediately register objection to abortion expansion with our Senator by phone, letter, e-mail, through the LICL petition drive (see page 3) and by a strong presence in Albany at one or more of the following:

- Tues., 3/18 for “Legislative Day” with NYFRF theme: "Liberty on the Line." Register at 585-225-2220 or NewYorkFamilies.org. Speaker: Bishop Harry R. Jackson, Jr., Hope Christian Church, Beltsville, Md. Day includes. 7-12 Grade Teen Track.
- Wed., 3/19 for “Catholics at the Capitol Day” with N.Y.S. Catholic Conference 518-434-6195 nyscatholic.org. Day includes N.Y.S. Knights of Columbus Prayer Rally 631-807-4568, including N.Y.S. Catholic Daughters 631-588-0168. All are urged to contact NYSCC to register and be placed with a team visiting legislators. In addition, all from DRVC must register for 3/19 and either the 2/27 or 3/8 briefing by calling 516-733-5827.
- Wed., 4/30 (Note: New Date) for the N.Y.S. Right to Life “Lobby for Life Day” held in “The Well” of the Legislative Building. To register call 518-434-1293 or www.nysrighttolife.org

"Abortion rate lowest since 1973" is the title of a recent AP article.

This is good news. Unfortunately, with the exception of brief reference to "the recent wave of laws restricting abortion access", the article gives little credit to the tireless efforts of pro-lifers. More on this news report will appear in the April issue of Life News.

FEDERAL LEGISLATION

On 1/28/14 the House passed the No Taxpayer Funding for Abortion and Abortion Insurance Full Disclosure Act of 2014 [HR.7]. It bans all taxpayer funding of abortions, via any federal funding route, including ObamaCare. (Except for rape, incest or life-threatening conditions; as certified by a physician). HR.7 bans federally paid workers or facilities (including D.C.) from performing abortions. It states all ObamaCare health-plans must make it clear whether or not the plan covers abortion. Both HR.7 & HR.1979, the Pain-Capable Unborn Child Protection Act, await Senate action. [Note: LICL opposes the anti-life parts of ObamaCare. It takes no position on the rest.]

UPDATE: DRVC et al. vs. the US Department of Health and Human Services (regarding the HHS Contraceptive/Sterilization/Abortifacient Mandate). Judge Brian Cogan's 12/16/13 ruling is the latest action in the suit. DRVC General Counsel Tom Renker says the Judge gave Catholic Health Services of Long Island a "resounding victory" by issuing an injunction to protect CHS from any enforcement of the Mandate. The Govt. said on 2/12/14 that it will appeal Judge Cogan's decision. DRVC's Parishes were already exempt from the Mandate, but the fate of some other Catholic organizations that were not plaintiffs in the suit is not yet clear.

The Supreme Court will hear oral argument on the cases of Hobby Lobby/Conestoga Wood vs HHS Mandate on 3/25/14. These are for-profit companies that object to some of the terms of the Mandate. As of 2/12/14, 84 Amicus Curiae (friend of the court) briefs have been filed in this case by a diverse group of entities. More than two-thirds of the briefs oppose the mandate, including 15 Congressmen & Senators who signed the Religious Freedom Act, K of C, USCCB, Nat. Assoc. of Evangelicals & the ACLJ. Some groups supporting the mandate are Guttmacher Inst., ACLU, AmCol of ObGyn, states of CA, MA, CT, DE, HI, IL, IA, ME, MD, NM, NY, RI, OR, VT, WA and Wash. D.C. A decision is expected late in June. No cases involving nonprofit organizations, such as the Little Sisters of the Poor, have reached the Supreme Court yet. Tom Renker noted that he believes that the Sisters' case will get there, after the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals issues its ruling.

ACTION ITEM: Tell your representatives to vote YES on The Health Care Conscience Rights Act (HR.940/S.1204) because it will protect institutions, individuals, insurers and pharmacists from the HHS mandate and from forced or coerced participation in abortion. It also protects medical professionals from government retaliation if they refuse to be involved with the performance of abortions.

HEALTH & SCIENCE

Our Struggle With Indifference

Brad Mattes, CEO, Life Issues Institute, 1/22/14

We face opposition in this battle for life. On one side, you and I stand passionately for life, and on the other are those who vehemently advocate for abortion. But if we focus solely on this head-to-head confrontation of “pro-life versus pro-abortion,” there’s a large segment of society that remains overlooked—those who don’t identify with either side. Unfortunately, one of the challenges we have to address is indifference.

From the start, abortion has been politicized and polarized, and many have simply chosen to opt out of the debate. Often, these are the people who say they “cannot make the decision for someone else.” Even if they personally are against abortion, they may feel as if taking a position would be forcing their beliefs on others. However, the reality is that if they aren’t standing for life, they’re an unwitting accomplice allowing abortion to continue claiming the lives of millions of babies. If we’re to engage those who are indifferent, it requires taking a different perspective and re-framing the issue away from politics and alienation.

In her own words, Julia Herrington was a bonafide and boisterous feminist. Following that value system, she accepted the political mantra that abortion was a woman’s right. She admits that her attitude toward abortion was apathetic. She justified her position through a series of questions: “Who am I to presume to know what is right for another woman? Am I, as a feminist, willing to assert that abortion isn’t right? Would I not be robbing women of authority over their own personhood, something women have fought ardently for, for far too long?” Yet, inside she had doubts that she couldn’t reconcile. In a blog posted on patheos.com, Julia shares how a year of soul searching and even working at a pro-life pregnancy resource center changed her mind about abortion.

First, abortion has long been positioned by pro-abortion activists and the mainstream media as a woman’s rights issue. That propaganda has fueled the pro-abortion movement for decades. It was intentional in design to link abortion to social justice. However, the truth is just the opposite. Abortion doesn’t liberate women; it oppresses them. Julia examined the abortion procedure itself and what she found is contrary to what feminism is supposed to stand for. “In every other facet of feminism, we celebrate a woman’s body; we honor her identity as a female. Abortion requires the silencing of a woman’s body and the unmitigated dismissing of her gender.” Rather than empowering, abortion silences and dehumanizes. Julia went on further to question the roots of abortion—the lie that sex without consequences is a possibility. “Sexual liberation has made slaves out of women; it has only perpetuated and glorified their objectification. The worst part is, these women think that they are free,” she concluded. Healthy sexuality is responsible and respectful, which is why it’s intended for the marriage relationship. As a culture, when we devalue our own bodies, it’s apparent that a child in the womb would be deemed disposable. We see this same logic within the Planned Parenthood business model. It preys upon children and teens with graphic sexualized messages. Their “anything goes” philosophy of sexuality is indoctrination. They encourage young people to have sex. If an STD is contracted, Planned Parenthood provides testing and treatment. Then, if an unplanned pregnancy occurs, Planned Parenthood is there with abortion services. The abortion industry feeds off of unhealthy sexuality. As a result, men, women and babies are all victims.

Lastly, Julia comes to the conclusion that apathy is not an acceptable response. Edmund Burke was right when he said, “All that is necessary for the triumph of evil is that good men do nothing.” It’s important that we help those who are indifferent see that by not taking a stand, they’re enabling abortion to continue to kill the pre-born and emotionally devastate their parents.

While working at a pregnancy resource center, Julia’s eyes were opened to the life-affirming alternatives to abortion. She now believes in a holistic and proactive approach to all issues of life from educating about healthy sexuality to supporting young mothers and families to involvement with the foster care system. Realizing how abortion is interconnected to other issues can aid us in connecting with others. Unfortunately, not everyone is willing to go through such a self-seeking journey as Julia did. That’s why we need to learn from her experience, examine our own perspectives and be willing to try different approaches to reach out to the indifferent.
